Important Notice Regarding At-Home Fetal Non-Stress Tests

Home State Health recognizes the importance of prenatal monitoring, particularly in high-risk pregnancies where ACOG guidelines recommend at least weekly monitoring sessions. However, this can present a significant disruption in patients' lives and overburden providers' clinical workload. Fortunately, new solutions have been clinically-validated and cleared by the FDA that enable non-stress tests (NSTs) to be performed remotely.

As you know, NSTs today are billed under the following CPT code:

- CPT Code 59025 - fetal non-stress test

In the interest of expanding access to care and improving member outcomes, we are writing today to confirm that CPT Code 59025 is reimbursable with a place of service modifier (12) for at-home monitoring with remote monitoring solutions that are FDA cleared for on-label use for monitoring fetal heart rate (FHR), maternal heart rate (MHR), and Uterine Activity (UA). We encourage our providers to utilize such technologies where appropriate to ensure our pregnant Home State Health patients receive all of the care that they need.

We appreciate your continued support. If you have any questions about this notice, please contact Home State health Provider Services at 1-855-694-4663.
